Day the sun went away
Khothatso Ranoosi and Marion Drew
English
Mother Sun decided to visit her sister, the moon.

Sister Moon lives on the other side of the sky.

“I will be back soon,” said Sun to the clouds.
When Sun left, the mountains put on their white scarves.
Wind had an argument with the trees.

The trees became angry.

They threw their leaves all over the place.
The sky started to grumble.

She turned grey.
The clouds were sad to see all this.

They started crying.

There were many tears.
The whole world began to sink under water.
Meanwhile, on the other side of the sky, Sun was ready to leave her sister.

She kissed the moon goodbye and went home.
Sky was so happy to see Sun that she turned bright blue.

The mountains put on their pretty green dresses.
The wind went to sleep.

The trees stretched their branches and smiled.
The clouds were very happy to see mother Sun again.

They went away to play.
Lots of little plants popped out of the earth to say, “Hello.”

The whole world sparkled.
Mother Sun shone her light everywhere.

“I told you I would be back,” she beamed.
Day the sun went away

Writer: Khothatso Ranoosi and Marion Drew
Illustration: Jesse Breytenbach
Translated By: Khothatso Ranoosi and Marion Drew
Language: English

© African Storybook Initiative, 2015

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution (CC-BY 4.0) Version 4.0 International Licence

Disclaimer: You are free to download, copy, translate or adapt this story and use the illustrations as long as you attribute or credit the original author/s and illustrator/s.

This story was created in Paleng Children's Centre, Lesotho. Please visit our FaceBook page: 'Paleng' and our website http://paleng.weebly.com/.