Palesa loves plants

Ursula Nafula

English
This is Palesa.
Her name means ‘flower’ in her language, Setswana.
In the morning Palesa talks to the orange tree. "Orange tree, please give us lots of oranges."
Palesa walks to school. On the way she says to the grass, "Please grass, grow greener and don’t dry up."
Palesa passes wild flowers. "Flowers, thank you for your bright colours."
At school, Palesa talks to the little tree.
"Tree, please grow big branches so we can read under your shade."
Palesa talks to the hedge round her school. "Please grow strong and stop bad people from going inside."
When Palesa returns home from school, she visits the orange tree. "Are your oranges ripe yet?" asks Palesa.
"The oranges are still green," sighs Palesa.

"I will see you tomorrow orange tree," she says.

"Perhaps then you will have a ripe orange for me!"
Palesa loves plants

Writer: Ursula Nafula
Illustration: Jesse Pietersen
Adapted By: African Storybook
Language: English

© African Storybook Initiative, 2015

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution (CC-BY 4.0) Version 4.0 International Licence
Disclaimer: You are free to download, copy, translate or adapt this story and use the illustrations as long as you attribute or credit the original author/s and illustrator/s.